HAS READ ABOUT CHICAGO WEATHER AND FEARS TO RISK IT.

But the Spanish Minister Mas Mopes that She Will Carry Out the Original Programme, Now that She Han Heen Advised that the Weather Mas Changed, and that the Social Pentures of Her Stay May be Arranged to Sutt Her Health.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—There is a possibility that the Princess Infanta Eulalie of Spain will not visit the United States and attend the World's Columbian Exposition, under the invitation of the President. She has started on the voyage and has reached Havana, but that she will continue thereon in accordance with the programme originally prepared is not yet decided. In a conference to-day between Secretary of State Greeham and Sefior Murauga, the Spanish Minister, the Minister said that he had called in consequence of the publication of a telegram from Madrid, intimating that the Priness would abandon her trip to the United States, and he ventured to suggest that, until more definite information was received, none of the arrangements already made for her reception and entertainment be changed or given up. Senor Muruaga said that her Highness was a person of delicate constitution. and that the care of her health was her first consideration.

"Several years ago." Seflor Muruaga continued, "the Princess was compelled to go to the baths in the Pyrenees, where she remained at intervals for three years, and any undue exertion or excitement is to be avoided. The Princess has probably read of the dreadful weather in which the preliminaries of the opening of the Fair were conducted, and is timfd about venturing into a climate where she is likely to encounter similar conditions. The death of Admiral Gomez, commanding the Spanish fleet at the naval review, consequent upon an illness contracted at Hampton lioads, who was buried yesterday in Havana, has doubtiess added to the hesilation she feels about coming to the United States. Another thing has probably weight also in the same direction. That is the hurden of the social functions arranged for her entertainment, she has read of what this generous people have done for the Duke of Veragua, and naturally she shrinks from the fatigue that will accompany the round of pleasure prepared for one of her rank.

"But I have strong hopes that she will carry out the original plan and come to this country. She has been advised of the radical change in the weather due to the settled change of seasons, and the social features of her stay may be made to suit her health and convenience. It would be no less a disappointment to the Spanish-apeaking people of the United States timid about venturing into a climate where the weather due to the settled change of seasons, and the social features of her stay may be made to suit her health and convenience. It would be no less a disappointment to the Spanish-speaking people of the United States than to the authorities of the Country and the officials of the Fair if she were compelled now to abandon her purpose and return te Spain from Cuba. I expect official advices to-morrow which will fully settle the question."

The Infanta, should she come, is expected to arrive in New York next Friday, the 19th inst. She will come on one of the Spanish-American Transportation Company's packets, which has been placed at her disposal; and from Havana to New York the packet will be escorted by two of the Spanish men-of-war which were lately at New York. The Infanta will not land at New York, but her vessel will be met down the bay by the United States steamship Dolphin, and the party will be taken in charge by Commander Charles H. Davis, who will place them on a special train in Jersey City, and escort them to Washington. Suitable quarters have been engaged at the Arlington, and the Infanta will be presented to President Cleveland probably the next day after her arrival.

Havana, May 13.—The Infanta Enlaits and her husband. Prince Antoine d'Orieans, attended yesterday a delightful garden party given by Captain-General Rodriguez Aricco at his summer residence, los Molines, in honor of the royal visitors.

The party was a most select affair, being attended by the officials and the clitic of Havana and in the evening attended a performance at the Albizu Theatre.

TO TOW THE CARAVALS TO CHICAGO. The Navy Department Solicits Bids from Towing Companies,

Washington, May 13,-Unless something ross amiss in the plane of the Navy Departan opportunity to see the Columbian caravals floating in the Lagoon about July 1. Some time ago inquiries were begun to ascertain the most fensible route between New York and Chicago by water.
The Erie Canal route was found to be impracticable by reason of the fact that several stationary bridges were so low that the caravels, the peops of which stand twenty-five feet above the water, could not pass beneath them, even were the masts removed. Then them even were the masts removed. Then them even were the masts removed. Then the possibilities of the St. Lawrence route were canvassed. It was found that one of the canal locks was limited to vessels of nine feet draught, but that by attachment of pontoons vessels of fourteen feet draught could be vessels of fourteen rest and the passed.

As the caravels do not exceed this draught, are being made to send them arrangements are being made to send them to Chicago by the St. Lawrence route. To-day the Navy Department solicited bids from towing companies for towing the vessels to Chicago. The route is more than 2,000 miles long, and at the regulation naval speed it will require about twenty days to make the journey. The expense of towing will be borne by the Spanish Government.

THE INFANTA MAY NOT COME REFORM IN THE PENSION OFFICE.

stoner Raum's Celebrated Com

WARHINGTON, May 13.—The following important order revoking the celebrated "Com-pleted Files" order of ex-Commissioner Raum has been issued by Commissioner Lochren: "So much of order 140, dated Dec. 28, 1880, as pertains to the establishment of the 'Completed Files System' and also order No. 151, dated Jan. 6, 1890, and order No. 155, dated July 1, 1890, bearing on the same subject, are bereby revoked.

"Hereafter all pending claims in each class will be taken up for consideration in the order in which the unconsidered evidence is filed. the object aimed at being a practical return to the method in vogue prior to 1889.

"Whenever any evidence shall be received in any case, such evidence will be strapped to the case, and the file card will be at once placed at the top of the file box of the examiner in whose charge the case may be.

Whenever any examiner shall have disposed of all the cases on his deak, additional cases represented by the file cards at the bottom of such examiner's file box shall be placed on his desk for consideration and action, and the proper calls for evidence shall be made or pending inquiries answered, or the case, if found to be complete, shall at once be sub mitted to the Board of Review for final adjudi-

The Commissioner's reasons for his order of revocation are given as follows:

The "completed" files system is objectionable, in that it entails extra work upon the bureau force without attendant compensating benefits; that it works injustice to other claimants by taking up certain claims out of their regular order; that claims certified by attorneys as complete, are usually found, upon examination, not to be complete, and the subsequent notice to claimants that their claims have been placed upon the "completed files" raises delusive hopes and expectations as to the speedy allowance of their claims, which hopes and expectations are in many instances never realized, and, hence, they naturally feel that they have been imposed upon by the bureau and their reasonable expectations betrayed.

Thousands of claims have been certified by attorneys as complete, when, as a matter of benefits; that it works injustice to other claim-

Thousands of claims have been certified by attorneys as complete, when, as a matter of fact, no evidence whatever had been filed in support of the claims, and thousands of others certified as complete when only a part of the necessary evidence had been furnished. These misleading certificates have, in many instances, been made by attorneys as many as five and six times in the same claim.

Again, under this system, claims are placed on the "completed files" on the statement of interested parties, before a proper examination of the papers can be had by an expert in such matters, which is manifestly improper. Again, there is no provision in this system covering the great number of rejected original claims, which works most unjust delays touching these claims and unfairly discriminates against this class of claims.

Under this system the file clerk, in many instances new to the service, is expected from a burried examination of the evidence to determine whether it meets the endorsed re-instances new to the service, is expected from a hurried examination of the evidence to determine whether it meets the endorsed requirements of the examiner. This is manifestly impracticable, as the examiner of the claim, who has charge of it from its inception to its final allowance or rejection, is alone competent to readily determine when the evidence is complete and the claim ready for adjudication.

This system entails much unnecessary work upon both file clerks and examiners, in that it permits attorneys indefinitely to allege that claims are complete, thereby necessitating the repeated drawing, considering, and filing of claims, in other words, a taking off and putting on the completed files" every time the attorney sees fit to certify that the claim is complete.

It also occasions a loss of valuable time in asserting, arranging, and filing alles by the file clerks, who could best be utilized in the distribution of evidence and other work pertaining to the files, and causes the loss of much time and labor in disposing of slips after the case has gone from the adjudicating division to the Board of Review. In view of these facts and others which might be instanced, and in the interest of a more just and systematic adjudication of claims, the abrogation of the "completed files" system and a practical return to that which prevailed prior to its adoption is deemed advisable.

TWO GEORGIANS AT WAR.

Hoke Smith and Congressman Livingston

WASHINGTON, May 13.-Representative Lannidas F. Livingston of the Atlanta district of Georgia and Secretary Hoke Smith of that State are having a regular monkey and parrot time over the question of who shall con-trol the patronage in the Atlanta district. For several years these eminent Georgians have been bitter personal as well as political enemies. Hoke Smith's paper fought Livingston vigorously for Congress, and Livingston retaliated by doing all in his power to prevent Mr. Cleveland appointing Hoke Smith to the Cabinet. Mr. Smith has given orders to the young men conducting his paper at home that Livingston's name shall never appear in it unless there was something unfavorable to say about him. The fight between them has.

about him. The fight between them has, however, been outside of the newspapers until now, but open war was declared yesterday. It came about in this way:

A half dozen men in the little town of Convers, in Georgia, made application for the Postmastership at that place. Mr. Livingston went home to see who the people of the town wanted. During his absence, and before he had filed any of the papers, Secretary Smith went to Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Maxwell, and asked for the appointment of George W. Weaver. The appointment of George W. Weaver. The appointment was made without advising with Mr. Livingston, and Mr. Hennett, Secretary Emith's private secretary, telegraphed to Weaver's friends that the appointment would be "made without Congressional interference."

When Mr. Livingston, who was at Convers looking into the matter of making a selection, heard of the announcement and read Mr. Smith's telegram he rushed back to Washington on the first train and demanded to know of Headsman Maxwell what he meant by making an appointment in his district without consultation with him, especially when he had promised to do nothing in the matter until his return. Mr. Maxwell replied that Secretary Smith and Senator Gordon had requested the appointment, and he felt it his duty to honor their request.

"Then I want to know if Mr. Smith is to revise all my recommendations?" asked Mr. Livingston, with an air of indignation.
"I don't know about that," replied Mr. Maxwell.

"Well, I shall see the President about this

"I don't know about that," replied Mr. Maxwell.

"Well. I shall see the President about this matter," said the Georgian. "If the Administration intends to allow Mr. Smith to appoint fourth-class Postmasters in my district, then I am going to hit back."

Mr. Livingston is indignant at this attempt on the part of Secretary Smith to belittle him with the people of his own district, and is mad enough to use his good right arm upon the person of the Secretary.

"There is no denying the fact." said he, "that Hoke Smith means to destroy me politically, if it be in his power. He despises me and I haven't a much kinder feeling for him. But he has declared war now and I mean to fight." Mr. Livingston will see the President on Tuesday, when the matter will be laid before him.

Inviting Emigration to the South.

Washington, May 13.—Mme. L. J. Velasquez Beard, in a letter to Secretary Carlisle, sets forth at great length the object of the Southern Emigration Society, in which she is deeply interested. She desires to locate at either Savannah or Baltimore a bureau for landing emigrants adapted to the various pursuits of the Southern climate. More than 7,000 emigrants, she says, are ready to move to the South, where already many parcels of land have been put into a syndicate to form a have been put into a syndicate to form a colony.

A prospectus will soon be issued giving the details of her plan. She is emphatic, however, in saying that "we desire to be entirely separate from the branch in New York city," and that the "New York of to-day is not the great New York of the past." She does not want our "beautiful country overrun by the Russian Jews and criminals of Siberia."

Superintendent Herman Stump, to whom Secretary Carlisle referred Mms. Beard's letter, replied that the Bureau of Immigration was in entire sympathy with the object of her plan as far as understood, and would await her promised prospectus.

$2.000.000 of Free Gold.

WARHINGTON, May 13.—At the close of business to-day the Treasury had on hand $824.425 of "free gold," and had accepted but had not yet put on the books $1.176,000, making the f.ee-gold balance $2.000,000 above the $100,000,000 gold reserve. The gold came from the West. Among Treasury officials the financial situation is regarded with equa-nimity.

THAT WONDERFUL PLANT

THAT A GREAT SCIENTIST SAYS ABOUT ITS PROPERTIES.

Are Not Slow to Take Advantage of the Best Things Obtainable-Celery is Both a Preventive and a Cure.

"Why is it that where celery is used extensively rheumatism and neuralgia are unknown?

This interesting question was asked of a well-known physician, who said in reply: The reason is that celery is both a preventive of rheumatism and neuralgiwell as a cure, and this is a fact that has been thoroughly proven by medical science. Everybody recognizes celery as a valuable nerve food and strengthener, but in its natural state it is too weak to accomplish this alone. Becog-nizing this fact, Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth College devoted nearly a lifetime to discovering a way by which its best properties could be extracted and combined so as to produce the result desired. He succeeded at last, and produced the desired. He succeeded at last, and produced the greatest remedy the world has ever known for the nerves, for neuralgia, and rheumatic diseases. It is known as Paine's celery compound. Wherever it is taken it purifies and enriches the blood, regenerates the whole system, and tones up the nerves in a way possible by no other means. I always prescrite it to my patients when they are run down in health, and it has never once failed to speedily restore them."

and it has never once failed to speedily restore them."

The experience of the physician above described is not an unusual one. Thousands of other doctors and an army of people who have suffered the agonies consequent upon nervous troubles can testify to the grand effects of the compound above mentioned. The words of only one will be given. They are from Col. G. P. Potter. Vice-President of the National Mutual Insurance Co., who sars:

"I have been a great sufferer from chronic constipation and insomnia. One is bad enough; both, horrible. Hearing of Paine's celery compound. I thought it might fit my case, so I went to the drug store and hought two bottles. I'm on the second bottle now, and deriving much benefit from it. The compound is giving me sleep. I persist in its use, and hope for even better results than already attained."

none tor even better results that already attained."

Here in New York, where life is so active, where the strains upon the body, mind, and the nerves are so great, the above truths become especially timely and valuable. This compound does not simply relieve, it cures, it builds up, it renews. It is the most popular medicine in America to-day, and its popularity is due wholly to its merits. If you are a sufferer you can in no way afford to negleat the opportunity afforded you for relief by means of this great modern discovery.—Adv.

A woman who was killed at the North Foureenth street crossing of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western Railroad in Newark late on Friday night was identified yesterday by Mrs. Fredericka Braun of 31 Rankin street in that city. Mrs. Braun did not know the name of the woman, but said that she was of Slav descent and was well educated.

Mrs. Braun declared that the woman was at her home on Friday, at which time she told Mrs. Braun that she had married in Hungarian named Edward Wiegner of 311 Rivington street, this city, and had just learned that her husband had been married twice before, and that one of his wives was Riving. The woman is said to have announced her intention of committing suicide.

MAKING WORK FOR THE LAWYERS.

Excise Contentions in the River Countles Which the Courts Will Have to Settle. KINGSTON, May 13.-In several counties in this part of the State there is much contention over excise matters and some important questions have been raised. the Supreme Court, or possibly the Court of Appeals, will be called upon to set-Legal proceedings will also grow out of the refusal of Excise Commissioners to grant licenses. These will be taken under what is known as the Roesch law, or the act authorizing such refusals to be brought before a court for review. There is one such case in Middletown, where the Board of Excise refused to grant a license to J. R. Kirschner, who rented the building adjoining the North Street Hotel, for the reason that there were enough licenses granted already in that particular locality.

The Board of Excise of the town of Hamptonburgh, Orange county, having adjourned without granting any licenses, the proprietor of the Hotel Large, at Campbell Hall, has begun proceedings to have a writ of certiorari issued and the case reviewed by a Judge of competent jurisdiction.

The Board of Excise in the town of Mont-The Board of Excise in the town of Montgomery, Orange county, consists of one license and two no-license members. The Board met, received many applications, but granted no license. Alexander Kidd, proprietor of the Eagle Hotel, at Walden, and Mrs. Christins Johnson, manager of the St. Nicholas Hotel, in the same village, have obtained a writ of certiorari, compelling the Board to show cause before Judge Brown, at Newburgh next Saturday, why they do not grant the hotel licenses applied for.

before Judge Brown, at Newburgh next Saturday, why they do not grant the hotel licenses applied for.

In the towns of Shandaken and Stamford, in the Catakilis, the Excise Boards refused to grant licenses. Many of the large summer resorts, as well as hundreds of small boarding houses, are located in these towns, and merchants and others are beginning to fear that their season's business will be ruined by what they deem unwise action on the part of the Excise Commissioners. A similar state of affairs exists in the town of Olive.

A curious complication arose in the town of Delhi, Delaware county. The vote at the last town meeting for Excise Commissioner was so close that the one license candidate had only one majority, and one of the ballots containing his name was alleged by his opponents to be a "marked" ballot because it had upon it a letter "S." The matter was taken to the Supreme Court on mandamus proceedings, and the decision of the court was that the ballot thus marked should be thrown out.

This made the result at leand gave the town Board a right to appoint an Excise Commissioner. That body appointed one in favor of granting licenses, and they have fixed the price of a notel license at $150. The temperance people are boycotting those who interested themselves in carrying the fight to the Supreme Court, and promise to renew the light at the next election.

Joseph Green, who cialms to have been elected an Excise Commissioner at Granville, by reason of the assured fact that the votes cast for E. R. Morton were void, owing to his ineligit-fility, was indicted by the Grand Jury a few days ago for intrusion into a public office. The Board of Excise of the town of Saugerties, after fixing the rate for licenses at $150, agreed to grant no license to any person not having hotel accommodations. This threw out many persons who have heretofore had licenses, and some of them propose to test the legality of the action. Brinnier & Nowcomb of this city have been retained by a hotel keeper at Glasco to certiforari the Board of Excise. The papers will be presented to Judge Parker at the first opportunity, and an effort made to ascertain whether a Board of Excise made to ascertain whether a Doard of Exceed can lawfully refuse a license to any applicant of good character who makes a tender of the mount fixed as the license fee

The Weather.

A storm of alight energy moving over the lake regions made a junction yesterday with a frough of low pressure and a secondary storm on the Virginia coast, and caused showers over the lake regions and the middie Atlantic and New England States and brisk to bigh northeasterly winds and dense for along the coast. Elsewhere over the country the weather was fair, but the conditions were very unsettled. The warm weather which prevailed in the Atlantic States was entirely dissipated. Showers and fog prevailed in this city; av-erage humidity, 82 per cent.; wind northaest; average velocity, 16 miles an hour; highest temperature 57 The thermometer at Perry's pharmacy in Tue Sus

Handlenpped by Rain and a Soft Track, the Old Rivals Perform Well-Bloss Brenks the Only Record of the Day-Corbin's Vic-tory Sets the Crowd Wild-Merrill's Rus. Cameridor, May 13.-Yale athletes made a great fight this afternoon against Harvard, but for all that the crimson still maintains its supremacy over Yale in track athletics. supremacy over Yale in track athletics. The score by points was, Harvard, 68%; Yale, 45%. The result was in doubt from start to finish, and it was only in the next to last even t, when Merrill beat out Richards of Yale at the 220yard dash, that Harvard men breathed easy. The day opened dark and gloomy. It rained continuously from 7 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Then a strong east wind came up, bringing with it a fine drizzling rain, which continued off and on during the remainder of the afternoon. The wind blew straight in the faces of the runners. and in consequence of the heavy condition of the track no very good time was made. There were about 1,000 persons present, and no one cared to leave the field, even if the rain was uncomfortable. Although the time was slow the events themselves did not for a moment lack in interest. Some of them fairly set the crowds wild, and the end was really a relief. The preliminary heats in the 100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdles, and two-mile bleycle race were first on the programme. It was no until the 440-yard dash came, however, that any final score was made. In this Yale picked Bennett for a winner, and Harvard staked their hopes on Merrill. There was but one heat in which six men came to the scratch. Bennett started off at a rattling speed. pressed closely by Pinkham, who was setting the pace for Merrill. At the end of the 220

Bennett started off at a rattling speed, bressed closely by Pinkham, who was setting the pace for Merrill. At the end of the 220-yard mark Merrill and Bingham quickened their stride and made a heautiful burst of speed, leaving the Yaleites far behind. When Merrill, Bingham, and Pinkham crossed the line in the order named the enthusiasm was intense. The time was 51 seconds. Harvard sympathizers credited the crimson's team with 8 points and waited.

It was Yale's turn next, however. Shead was the only man to represent Harvard in the final heat of the high burdles. Lyman, Cady, and Hart were in for Yale. Shead made a beautiful race and led Lyman until the last hurdle, when he weakened slightly, and Lyman pushed ahead, winning by about a foot in 16 4-5 seconds. Hart of Yale came in third. The preliminary heats in the 160-yard dash brought out two Harvard winners, namely, Lefurgy, L. S. who beat Yale's sprinter, Richards, and Sayer, who won over Jones of Yale in the last five yards of the race. The final heat was a desperate struggle between Lefurgy and Richards. The latter looked like a winner at the end of the seventy-five yard mark, but before the finish. Sayer casily won third over Jones of Yale. The time was 10 2-5 seconds. The score now stood 16 to 18.

The one-mile run was next decided. Scoville of Yale set the pace for three laps and ran in beautiful form. On the last lap he weakened. Morgan of Yale then took the lead, closely pressed by Fenton of Harvard. Gradually he drew away from the crimson runner until the last fifty yards. Here Fenton made a plucky spurt, but could only come in for second place. Blake of Harvard was third. Morgan won in 4 minutes 39 2-5 seconds. Scoville of Yale so the took the lead, closely pressed by Fenton of Harvard or Yale ference still further in the next event.

In the one-mile walk F.S. Bunnell set ont on a quick run, and drew rapidly ahead, until reminded by the judge that he was in a walking match. Wight of Yale and Engled to Harvard by two points; and she hoped to the fron clear lead of at least four yards, but Merrill of Harvard was equal to the emergency. He managed to make up the difference and two feet to spare. This was the deciding event. Yale men now begin to realize that the games were lost to them. Not content with this, however. Harvard added eight more games were lost to them. Not content with this, however, Harvard added eight more points to her score by taking all three places in the high jump. Then, as if impatient at heing forced to wait so long, the clouds opened and the rain came down in torrents. No one cared now, however, for Harvard had won. The following is the summary:
